DEATH CLAIMS ONE OF CITY'S SUCCESSFUL AND OUTSTANDING CITIZENS

Robert Christian Engman, 75, Peacefully Passes On—At Residence Early Hour Friday Morning—Interment At New Orleans Sunday 10 A. M.

Robert Christian Engman, native of New Orleans, practically life-long resident of Bay St. Louis, passed away at his home in Booklet avenue, Friday morning, August 13, 1937, at 3:40 o'clock. He was 75 years old January 22, of this year.

Mr. Engman had been ailing from time to time over a long period, and for the past few years had retired from active business, although he was interested in banking and for years actively engaged in successful pursuit of realty values—largely in his own account and representing as well the buying and selling interests of others. During the peak years of 1927 to 1929 and even prior to that he was senior member of the firm of Engman & Cooper, doing an extensive business and assisting materially in the further development of this section of the Mississippi Gulf Coast, proving, as he did all through life, a potential contributor to the material growth and general welfare in the city and county he loved so well.

Mr. Engman had always pinned his faith to the future of this section. And that he proved in substantial manner, for he had from time to time accumulated considerable property in his own name and in his own behalf, thus investing any returns resulting from various negotiations.

Rising from humble business beginnings, Mr. Engman, by keen business foresight and with unlimited ability to do and capacity for work, always facing secure Bay St. Louis and vicinity was the best place to live and to earn a livelihood—by persistence and dint of hard work rapidly rose to position of prominence and financial stability, enjoying the esteem and confidence of all with whom he came in contact. He was a man of integrity, and his word was his bond, and his empty phrase here, and the many who did business with him did so with that feeling of security that was definite and left nothing else to be wished.

At the time of his death and for many years Mr. Engman was identified with the Hancock County (Continued on page 5)

TWO FIRMS TO MERGE AS UNIT

W. A. McDonald & Son and C. C. McDonald, Wholesale, To Merge As W. A. McDonald And Sons.

To take effect September 1, the firm of W. A. McDonald & Son, composed of W. A. McDonald and John McDonald, and that of C. C. McDonald, both of this city, and dealers in builders' materials and other supplies and staples, will combine.

The new firm will be known as W. A. McDonald & Sons and both firms as one will do business from the one place now operated as W. A. McDonald & Son, Touline and Eslerbrook streets.

This merger of two major business houses of this city and county will mean for better concentration of interests and enable larger purchasing and selling power under one organization and will prove of mutual interest and advantage to both buyer as well as to the seller.

Both separate firms have been in business for over a long period of years and enjoy a widespread confidence. That of W. A. McDonald is nationally known, doing a business over the South and Southwest extensively and serving other sections as well. The firm is, wholesale dealer, in tobacco and cigarettes and cigars as well and its trade extends far and wide. That of C. C. McDonald has enjoyed a wide and prosperous local trade.

The new firm will continue both local and mail order business and solicit the support and patronage of the two present firms under the new and one organization.

A card to the effect appears elsewhere in this issue of the Sea Coast Echo.

VOCATIONAL TRAINING IS SUBJECT OF TALK BY STATE COLLEGE PROF.

George E. Wallace, Member Faculty State College at Starkville Is Rotary Speaker.

Geo. E. Wallace, Professor in Trades and Industrial Education, State College at Starkville, was the guest-speaker at the regular meeting of the Rotary Club, Hotel Reed Wednesday. He touched upon the history of vocational education, and outlined the method of instruction followed by his department.

Prof. Wallace reminded his listeners that vocational training of men had been in practice for centuries, and was not a new and untried undertaking. He explained that his department at Mississippi State College is now maintained through an act of Congress, known as the Smith-Hughes Law, whereby State money is matched dollar for dollar by federal aid. The co-operation of the federal and state governments made this particular training possible. The law became effective during the year of 1917.

The speaker stated that there were now more than 100 trained instructors in this work throughout the state. These instructors maintain night schools for the underprivileged boys and girls, also summer schools for convenience of delinquent students. In towns large enough to secure proper and necessary co-operation from employers, a co-ordinator is employed to carry out vocational training in co-operation with the schools and employers. Under this plan a student would attend schools in the morning, and work in the afternoon. This would apply to the last two years of high school work, following this plan students would finish high school with the required credits, and at the same time have two years of practical experience in some line of work.

Prof. Wallace was introduced by Prof. Ingram, a member of the local club. The speaker is a member of the Starkville Rotary Club. His discussion of vocational training was very informative as well as interesting.

gaging personality and a warmth of personal consideration and sympathy that ever won for her many friends. Her charities were wide and liberal though concealed, not wishing that her various benefactions be known. Truly a woman of many virtues and attributes and her passing away removes from the field here below a woman whose absence will be keenly felt.

FIRE DESTROYS ONE OF SHOW PLACES ON PASS CHRISTIAN BEACH WAY

Bay St. Louis Engine Responds to Call—Could Not Overcome Headway of Flames—Dwelling Was Owned by The Late Arthur Parker—Origin Unknown—Structure Laid Flat to Ground.

Although the Bay St. Louis fire department responded promptly, immediately on receiving telephonic call for assistance, and Gulfport as well was prompted to respond, the fire had gained headway and was beyond control, hence the total loss. However, the valuable adjoining dwellings were protected from imminent danger.

The fire, discovered at 5 a. m., burned furiously and within an hour the handsome structure was reduced to a smoldering mass. Members of the crew of the fire engine of Pass Christian and of another from Bay St. Louis stood by helplessly after a brief, futile attempt to extinguish the flames. The streams of water fell impotently into what was by that time a roaring furnace.

The home, owned by Robert M. Parker, Philip Parker and Mrs. I. H. Traube of New Orleans, sons and daughter of the late Arthur Parker, was valued at between $25,000 and $35,000. The contents, including many rare antiques and paintings, were valued at between $10,000 and $15,000.

"We had many of Dad's and Mother's effects in our Pass Christian home which were priceless," said Robert Parker. "No value can be placed on those."

The destruction of the Parker home was looked upon as a real tragedy by residents and visitors to Pass Christian, for its beauty and charming environment lent much attraction to West Beach Boulevard.

There was no one in the home when the fire broke out. Philip Parker left it Friday last to go on a visit to Virginia. Robert Parker and (Continued on page 5)

RESIDENT FOUND DEAD IN ROOM WHEN HE FAILS TO MAKE APPEARANCE

Frederick W. Dent, Retired Western Union Operator, Victim of Heart Malady—Aged 56 Years—Body Shipped to Alabama Wednesday Night By Relatives For Final Rites and Interment.

Frederick W. Dent, aged 56 years, residing at the family home of Mrs. F. C. Bordages, Sr., who, with her daughter, Miss Daisy Bordages, resides on North Beach boulevard, adjoining the A. & G. Theater, was found dead in his room Wednesday morning.

Mr. Dent was a retired Western Union operator, having worked at the keys for thirty-five years, most of which time he spent in New Orleans where he was engaged.

Because of ill health he was retired seven years ago, according to a statement from his sister-in-law, Mrs. E. D. Dent of Mobile. The last three years he resided in Bay St. Louis and spent most of his time in the Bay St. Louis office of the Western Union, where he enjoyed to be back in the scenes and with the activities of his life's work. It was said he was unusually expert in the manipulation of the key and from time to time assisted the local operator in emergency.

Break Open Door
Mr. Dent would rise at the customary hour of daily routine. Dressed, he would eagerly seek his morning newspaper, placed at the front of his door.

However, this particular morning he failed to appear and noting that the paper had not been picked up, after reasonable waiting he was called repeatedly by knocking on his door to which no response was received.

Becoming apprehensive Mrs. Bordages and daughter called for outside assistance and developments soon revealed that he died during the night or morning hour while in his sleep.

Dr. D. H. Ward was summoned and viewed the body and it was apparent the deceased had passed away alone stated, and accordingly the proper certificates of death were given the cause as acute heart failure. Mr. Dent was victim of a chronic heart malady and from time to time it was evident he was at ill ease. However, there seemed no premonition of the unexpected and sudden end. The evening previously he was himself as usual, in fine spirits. It was said he had oft times expressed the wish that when he passed away it would be in the manner in which it finally occurred.

The body, after the proper medical and official formalities, was turned over to the Fahey Undertaking Company and prepared for burial. It was held until Wednesday night when it was shipped to Montgomery, Ala., at 11:43 over the L. & N. for final disposition, accompanied by his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Dent, residents of Mobile, the former an engineer on the L. & N. Railroad.

My brother-in-law was from Clayton, Ala., said Mrs. Dent a great deal of the major portion of his life was spent in New Orleans. Only recently he visited our home in Mobile and was seemingly well. However, it was evident he knew all was not well. He frequently referred to the end in a casual way and said he hoped it would be without lingering preliminary. He was a believer in cremation and had said more than once he favored that final disposition of his body. Yet we find no available record or particularly expressed wish to the effect, "We must return to Alabama to night (Wednesday) with the body," she continued, "and I am awaiting the arrival of my husband who is due in Bay St. Louis at 4 o'clock."

Remains were shipped that night on the last train to Montgomery, Ala., accompanied by the sorrowing relatives, who were also accompanied by Miss Bertha Shell, resident operator and manager for Western Union. Miss Shell was a friend of the deceased and valued highly his favor and assistance, a fraternal bond existed in the work in which they were interested.

Mr. Dent was unmarried. He is survived by two brothers, Robert Dent, resident of Tuscaloosa, Ala., E. D. Dent of Mobile. They felt very close to their brother and the news of his sudden passing was a severe shock.

The deceased was of a retiring disposition. A man of culture and education and a highly trained and efficient specialist in his vocational pursuit.

SCHOOLS OPENING AGAIN.

SCHOOLS will soon open again not only in Mississippi but in the United States and millions of children will pursue their studies in the hope of being educated.

The basic idea behind education in the old days was that it helped a man or woman "get along in life." Education as an end in itself was not the goal but rather education was a means to a more successful life. It will be well for school boards and school men to remember this as they plan the school work.

Teachers everywhere have great responsibility as they contact the young people who study under them and are obliged to obey them. More than ever, in many communities, the character of the boys and girls depends upon the teachers they have in the public schools. Most of the instructors are not unduly rewarded financially for their work but, with rare exceptions, they take a great interest in the welfare of their pupils.

Without having any particular subject in mind, or without suggesting that this has not been done in Hancock county, the school officials should constantly seek to make instruction more practical and definitely align school work with the world in which the pupils will eventually live. New subjects should be incorporated into the year's calendar in order that the growing child will come out of school up-to-date, at least. The Echo has always been a firm believer in keeping abreast with the times. While people do not change very much for human nature is always the same times do change and we must be able to meet the requirements of such demands.

We are very proud of the success of our schools and know their administration is of that kind that makes for forging to the fore and keeping there.

Much of the unpleasant news printed in the press could be left unpublished without hurting anybody.

MISSISSIPPI'S GAS FIELD.

A TOTAL of 65,396,645,000 cubic feet of natural gas have come out of the Jackson gas field since its discovery in 1930, declared N. Toler, State oil and gas supervisor.

He said there are 131 wells in the field, some of which have been producing only a few months.

Pressure has declined from 1,010 pounds per square inch to 922 pounds at present. Estimates of the field's total capacity range up to 1930 billion feet, Toler added.

Production in 1936 was approximately 13,000,000,000 cubic feet and for the first six months of 1937, approximately 7,000,000,000 cubic feet.

While there are numerous prolific gas wells in and around Jackson, Mississippi has no oil wells. However, tests have been in the process and continue but to date no definite results.

State-owned lands were drilled to deep depths under auspices and financed by Mississippi in quest of oil but to no avail. In Lamar county the Jackson News of Sunday morning carries an account to the effect that drillings by the Sun Oil Company so far reveals nothing. But this is not discouraging for the same newspaper report tells of continued drillings and that plans for the immediate future shows no idea of abandonment of the quest. Striking of gas in Mississippi apparently has not meant so much as would be expected, even though it is found in large and commercial-paying quantities.

Oil, definitely oil and nothing else seems to satisfy. So let it be oil and may success be acquired. It will be a new day for industrial Mississippi.

APPEALING FIGURE DISAPPEARING.

THERE is no more appealing professional figure in American life than the well-trained rural general practitioner who keeps abreast of advances in his profession and to whom patients are something more than a "common nature" says the New York Times in discussing the recent gift to make possible in Boston, Mass., the establishment of a medical center for the development of "rural medicine."

If the general practitioner is so appealing the nation might as well do something for him because the type is fast disappearing and, under present conditions, will disappear by the end of another generation. The family physician, so long the object of veneration, finds the hard lesson of economics against him as he sees the young specialists crowd into his practice and take from him the cream of his business.

The backbone of the practice of medicine as we know it is the family doctor but the odds are against him. The medicos who are vigorously opposing the spread of state medicine might find, upon reflection and study, that in permitting the family physician to pass away they have lost their mainstay against socialized treatment of individuals. If the medical associations would do something about making the field of the general practitioner more attractive financially there would be less need to worry about state medicine.

Juries that acquit individuals who are tried for driving automobiles while intoxicated give a careless endorsement to the death of hundreds of persons every year.

DEMISE OF A LEADING CITIZEN.

THE demise of Robert C. Engman, life-long resident of this section, business man and banker, which occurred ere the day had dawned last Friday, removes from this section a man who through a vista of many years had been actively identified with the development and better interest of this city, county and the Gulf Coast in general.

No citizen consistently and actively lived a more useful life, contributing his energies and ability in the fullest quota. No cause, enterprise or endeavor went begging for lack of support on his part. He was ever ready and with willing hand to give and to sponsor any project that meant for betterment.

His life from day to day over the long span of life God gave him was actuated from a spirit of enterprise that knew no element of selfishness. Always assuming that the success of his community best served the majority, and putting others above self, he was ever ready to do.

His efforts were largely affiliated in the development of this section and played an important role in its material advancement, associated potentially in the pursuit of realty transfers; seeing that outsiders and investors came to share the advantages that abound in this section.

Mr. Engman was a man of high ideals. One of business acumen. And in the cause of man he was ever ready to do.

His knowledge of economic proportions in everyday life suited him ideally for the business of banking. He was ever of the constructive type, conserving and although liberal in policies and in the application of action, as an executive his policies were safe and sound. His counsel was frequently sought and served in good stead with the financial institution that had long ago recognized his ability and honored him from time to time to that point he became chairman of the bank's board, the highest honor and recognition that could come to one as matter of place.

Bay St. Louis and Hancock county have sustained heavily in loss of its leading citizens within a comparative short period of the past and the passing of R. C. Engman adds to the burden and toll. And the place left vacant will not be easy to fill.

There is satisfaction in the knowledge he had not only served over a long period of time but that he did so unflinchingly, unselfishly and without price. His was a labor for upbuilding and uplifting and the very success of such efforts was all that he sought in return. This was not a price but a reward. And he was entitled to every bit of satisfaction that might have come his way.

FOR LOCAL AMELIORATION.

THE province of local luncheon clubs, invariably composed of business men of a community, is not only to make for better fellowship and general fraternization, but there are prerogatives of such clubs that make for municipal betterment.

That is to seek for improvement, to correct and to act as a remedial agent. This is well and makes for a greater usefulness of such clubs.

Bay St. Louis Rotary club is one of the outstanding active organizations of that kind for this section and it is not amiss that its Board of Directors, recently in session, went on record and mapped out a course for intense and further endeavor.

Resolutions adopted included the following objectives for immediate action: Requesting the L. & N. Railroad Company to paint the barn-like and unsightly building located opposite the front of the passenger depot building.

Requesting the Bay St. Louis City Commission to erect a sign at the foot of the bi-county bridge pointing to the beach business district of this city.

Also requesting the municipality to place a supply of water plug adjacent to the Mauffray store building. This, it was pointed out, since located in the heart of the thickly settled business section, would make for immediate supply and play of water on fire that might be discovered during the night.

The latter has been in discussion for years. The matter has been proposed time and again and the wonder is that such protection has not been installed long ere this.

The Echo, along with other property owners and tax-payers, hopes this will be attended to at no late date. That is, as early as practical. The cost is negligible compared to the realty and other values that might be saved from destruction if taken in time.

SENATOR BILBO'S COSTLY PETTINESS.

EVEN the utmost Bilbo partisan, if he be fairminded, will resent the recent action of the One Term Junior Senator from Mississippi which cost the State the loss of the position and distinction of leadership in Congress.

That Senator Harrison, nationally recognized and chairman of the Finance Committee, lost over the narrow margin of only one vote, that of his colleague, Bilbo, is to be deplored. For more reasons than one, but by no means the least the fact that it was conceived of malice and pettiness.

One Termer Bilbo replies to his critics, "Senator Harrison did not ask me for his vote." Naturally Harrison would not be expected to ask for that vote since his selection would have brought added glory and national prestige to Mississippi at the Capital. It was not a personal affair but Bilbo made it so.

Secondly, the facts in the case and behind the spite vote everyone well knows the history back of the incident that motivated such petty spite. Bilbo turned against Senator Harrison last year during the campaign for the reason it pleased the senior Senator to urge the confirmation of Judge Holmes' elevation to higher place.

Bilbo said Judge Holmes sent him to jail for contempt at one time and allowed him to remain there. The pity is that he ever got out. Did the people of Mississippi elect Bilbo to represent the State and Nation or did they do so in order he may vent his spleen and personal prejudices at their expense?

Of course Senator Harrison was double-crossed by a higher source, we are inclined to believe, but no one would ever for a moment think Bilbo would have turned traducer to his State and people.

WHAT THE PRESS IS SAYING OF MEN AND MATTERS IN EDITORIAL EXPRESSION

MRS. CONNER PASSES

(Jackson News)

MANY thousands of friends will keenly sympathize with Ex-Governor Mike Conner, his two brothers, Jack and Oscar, and one sister, Mrs. O. S. Mayfield, in the death of their beloved mother, who passed away Sunday in a local hospital after a valiant but vain fight.

Mrs. Conner was truly an old-fashioned mother, endowed with all those splendid traits of heart and mind essential to the highest type of Christian motherhood.

Mrs. Conner's greatest joy in life was to bring joy and happiness into the lives of others, and full well did she play that part.

Just an old-fashioned mother was Mrs. Conner—a devoted wife, a loving mother, a kind and charitable neighbor, a faithful worker in the church, ever with a kindly word for all. Such a mother and her part in the world was once beautifully described by Dr. Daniel A. Poling in these words:

"Women compose music, but they are not musicians; they paint pictures, but they are not artists; they find new stars, but they are not astronomers; they chart the rocks but they are not geologists; they heal the sick, but they are not physicians; they superintend the schools of great cities, but they are not educators; they enter with success well-nigh every department of human endeavor, but they are not administrators; they glorify the pulpit, but they are not preachers; they exert a healthy influence on politics but they are not politicians; they contribute largely toward the solution of the problems among nations, but they are not statesmen; they enter constructively every field of reform, but they are not reformers. Always they are the mothers of men."

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

COMPLAINTS ABOUT PUBLIC UTILITIES SERVICE.

Waveland, Miss., August 17, 1937.
The Editor Sea Coast Echo.

Dear Sir: I wonder how long it will take the suffering people of this community to realize the fact that their paid public servants owe them some consideration. This question is asked by the good people of Waveland who are "silent sufferers" at the hands of the Mississippi Power Company.

They cannot be sure of seeing a picture at the Gulf Theatre without the lights failing, and this through the fault of the Miss. Power Co. they are never sure of cooking a meal on an electric stove without the current going off, and still the same Power Company wishes the people to buy electric stoves, and as a culminating effort on the part of this same Miss. Power Co., the whole of Waveland was thrown into semi-darkness on the 7th inst.

On this occasion I personally got in contact with their repair man, Mr. Carl Vickers, only to be told that he was off duty, would not take care of an emergency, and after receiving full particulars about the lights being "dim" informed me that the trouble was in the interior of my home and that I better get an expert electrician who immediately informed me that the trouble was on the main power line.

It is interesting to know that this "expert electrician" was a colored chaffer" which gives me to wonder why the Mississippi Power Company does not employ "colored chuffers" to do their "expert electrical work," and thus give the people of Waveland some service for their money.

Yours truly,
M. J. COSTELLO.

PROFIT

Through July 27, the PWA bought $642,598.596 in municipal bonds, of which $38,000,000 have been placed with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation at par. Of these, $400,000,000 worth have been sold at a profit of $11,326,380 to the Government. In addition, interest collected from borrowing cities, state and counties, amounting to $20,648,798, has been turned into the Federal Treasury.

Governor Leche of Louisiana earlier had invited governors of ten Southern States to compete in what would be the second annual Governors' Regatta since Gov. White of Mississippi and Gov. Leche of Louisiana raced in Mississippi Sound waters opposite Biloxi last year. It will be remembered Gov. White won. It was implied that such a race would this year be held in Louisiana. Possibly again in Mississippi next year.

YOU TELL ON YOURSELF.

You tell what you are by the friends you seek,
By the manner in which you speak,
By the way you employ your leisure time,
By the use you make of dollar and dime.
You tell what you are by the things you wear,
By the spirit in which your burdens bear,
By the kind of things at which you laugh,
By records you play on your phonograph.
You tell what you are by the way you walk,
By the things of which you delight to talk,
By the manner in which you bear defeat,
By so simple a thing as how you eat.
By the books you choose from the well filled shelf;
In these ways and more, you tell on yourself,
So there's really no particle of sense in any effort at pretense.

Transportation Is Important Factor Of School Operations

Transportation is classed by most school administrators as one of the most important functions in connection with the operation of schools. Considerably more than 125,000 pupils will be transported daily to and from the schools in Mississippi during the coming school year. The safety of these children is a very important matter and every precaution possible should be exercised for their protection.

The school buses should be well equipped, keeping in mind two important features. The first is provision for ample space and protection in case of bad weather conditions. Second and possibly the most important is the safety of the children. In order to insure safety the drivers should be safe, sober, and efficient in the operation of the bus. The buses should be so equipped as to give a maximum amount of safety and protection in case of accidents.

Before the operation of any bus is begun it should be inspected by the trustees, county superintendent of education, and the county school board and should not be accepted unless it is properly constructed.

The law provides that in every school where transportation is provided a safety council shall be appointed. There should be one member of this council on each school bus operated in the school district. Before crossing any railroad track or highway intersection it is the duty of the driver to bring the bus to a complete stop and have the member of the safety council get off the truck and ascertain whether any train or other vehicle is approaching. If so the driver is not permitted to cross until the other vehicle has passed.

We wish to urge the observance of all the safety rules and regulations in the operation of every school bus in the state. We cannot afford to be careless when so many young lives are involved.

Coast-Memphis Route Is Nearing Finishing Stage

Gulfport, Miss., August 6.—Completion of the north and south road extending from Gulfport to Memphis before the end of the current year looms as a certainty with the awarding of contracts on all of the unpaved sections of Highway 51 northward from Jackson to Memphis, totalling 100.3 miles, leaving only a small stretch to be let for paving on Highway 49 from Jackson southward to Gulfport, according to tabulations received at Gulfport from the state highway department.

The only unpaved link on Highway 49 for which the contract is yet to be let is at Brooklyn south of Hattiesburg, but this contract will probably be let the latter part of this month, according to C. A. McKie, statistician for the state highway department.

Of the 100.3 miles of highway between Gulfport and Memphis under construction or for which contracts have been let, 58.54 miles are on Highway 51 and 41.97 on Highway 49. Only 3.12 miles remain to be let on the entire highway. December 25 is the last completion date scheduled in the contracts let.

Of the 100.3 miles under contract, 6.51 miles will be finished by September 1, 28.63 miles by October 1 and 50.78 miles by October 15. Present plans provide for the awarding of contracts so as to complete 6.54 miles by November 15 and the last link of 7.87 miles by December 25.

A bridge on Highway 51 in Tate county, north of Senatobia, is scheduled for completion about Sept. 15.

SHOWING ACTORS HOW TO ACT

THIS IS THE WAY IT'S DONE. This shot taken on the Goldwyn lot in Hollywood, shows how the great lovers of Hollywood get love. Director Archie Mayo is showing Gary Cooper and Sigrid Gurie, how a love scene in "The Adventures of Marco Polo" should be done. Mayo claims that Cooper's love-making is too modern and of the same time, too accidental. As an authority on matters amatory, the director demonstrates the Oriental way of making love.

Colmer Prefers Farm Legislation First

Congressman Wm. M. Colmer (Democrat-Mississippi) made his position on farm legislation clear on the floor of the House of Representatives. He said: "Mr. Speaker, few members on either side of the aisle have supported labor and this Administration through this great national emergency more consistently than I have. But I want to serve notice now, as one who is not breaking his neck to adjourn and go home, that there is to be no consideration of a wage and hour bill, so far as I am concerned, unless there is some action for the relief of the farmer who is now facing a tragic falling market for his cotton and other products. A wage-and-hour law, greatly increasing the cost of everything the farmer must use, with a falling market on his products, would be fatal."

son as per sketch attached to said petition; and whereas the Board has considered the said petition and being of the opinion that the same should be granted,

It is therefore ordered that the said petition of Weldon Ladner be received and filed and granted, and the Board having examined the said petition and finding that all of the land owners on said Route have ordered that Calvin Shaw, John B. Wheat and T. E. Keller be appointed a committee to view and inspect said proposed route and report their findings to this Board.

This day came on for hearing and consideration the claim of J. B. Gully, State Tax Collector of the State of Mississippi, for $1400.80, as and for Commissions due his under Section 6999, Code 1930 upon the sums paid by Southern Land & Royalty Company, at the instance and upon the procurement of said State Tax Collector, in payment of taxes upon certain lands in Hancock county, Mississippi, being taxes due upon said lands for the years 1932, 1933, 1934, 1935, and 1936, and said lands being substantially the same lands belonging to said company which were sold for said taxes on the 5th day of January, 1935, for the taxes of 1932, and the legality of which sales was and is disputed by said State Tax Collector, but the sums paid were and are sufficient to redeem said lands from said sale as well as pay the taxes thereon for said years, the said redemption being shown by the records to have been made as of January 7th, 1937, and the records of the Chancery Clerk on file in his

TAYLOR - STANWYCK CO-STAR IN DRAMA OF SUPREME LOVE

"This Is My Affair" Twentieth Century-Fox Hit Brings Together The Screen's Sweethearts.

Robert Taylor and Barbara Stanwyck—the screen's most talked-about real-life sweethearts—have been teamed by Twentieth Century-Fox in the picture the world is talking about, "This Is My Affair," which will be at the A. & C. Theater, Sunday and Monday.

The story of a love supremely courageous and unashamed, endearing the nation's highest places and gambling life it self for a great stake, "This Is My Affair" provides both Taylor and Miss Stanwyck with the most important story either of these great stars has ever had, and affords Victor McLaglen, who heads the strong supporting cast, the finest opportunity he has had since his powerful characterization in "The Informer."

"This Is My Affair" would be a triumph for either of its co-stars, for it presents Robert Taylor in a picture which captures the mood of great romance and the urge of mighty drama, while Barbara Stanwyck matches his greatness with a fire and power given full scope for the first time. But for Robert Taylor and Barbara Stanwyck, it is supreme dramatic opportunity—to be together, to act together, to become greater together.

In a mid-Western criminals' hangout, Taylor makes the acquaintance of a cafe owner, Victor McLaglen; his right-hand man, Brian Donlevy; and the singing and dancing star of the cafe's show, Barbara Stanwyck. He notes that the two men have acquired large sums of money, and that their absence from the cafe coincides with a bank robbery in another city. John Carradine, Douglas Fowley, Alan Dinehart, Sig Ruman, Robert McWade, Sidney Blackmer and Frank Conroy are featured in the Twentieth-Century-Fox film, for which production chief Darryl F. Zanuck chose William A. Seiter as director. Kenneth Macgowan was associate producer and the original screen play is by Allen Rivkin and Lamar Trotti.

Governor White Invites Colonels To Dance

Governor Hugh White announced that he had invited all his colonels to come to Biloxi where he is spending some time, August 13 for a dinner and dance.

There are about 120 colonels on the staff and at least half of this number and their wives are expected here for the occasion.

The tentative plan also calls for a dance on the following night. Other state officials also are expected to be there.

The governor returned to Biloxi, to the summer capital of the State, located in the Buena Vista Hotel, he had been visiting points in the central part of the state. He went to Water Valley, where he took part in the watermelon festival, also visited in Jackson.

Governor White is not expected to spend the week end in Biloxi, but instead will go to his retreat on the Pascagoula river.

545th Coast Artillery To Fort Barrancas, Fla.

Officers of the 545th Coast Artillery have begun arriving at Fort Barrancas, Florida, to officially take over command of the C. M. T. Camp on August 12th. This regiment is in command of Lieutenant Colonel Robert L. A. Indest of New Orleans, La., and will relieve the 925th Coast Artillery from its present command of the camp. There are approximately 35 officers of the 545th Coast Artillery who are detailed for this duty and they hail from the state of Louisiana and Mississippi.

The C. M. T. C. trainees continue their regular schedule in spite of slightly inclement weather. Training in close order drill, sea-coast artillery, machine gun and rifle marksmanship is in order for the day.

MIGHT CAUSE WAR

Immediate enforcement of the neutrality laws, recently passed with the sole idea of making it impossible for the United States to become embroiled in a foreign war could draw this country into war with China or Japan within an hour, according to a statement made by Senator Lewis of Illinois to the Senate. The ban on shipments to either country would make possible the seizure of our ships in the Far East and possibly the detention of American citizens. Such a situation might easily result in war.

"IT'S ALL YOURS" IS COAST PREMIER SHOW-AT GULF THEATER

The management proudly announces that he has secured Columbia's latest comedy hit direct from a record breaking week at the Orpheum Theater in New Orleans.

"It's All Yours" starring Madeline Carroll and Francis Lederer comes to the Gulf Theater for a glorious two-day showing, Sunday and Monday, August 22 and 23.

In the modes of the sophisticated comedy which has found such high favor in the motion picture audiences of recent months, "It's All Yours" has this and more. Comedy is abundant, but not too much as to interfere with the plot. Madeline Carroll does a metamorphosis from an officer secretary to glamorous girl.

Francis Lederer, prince charming in the film, and of the screen in many fair damsel's opinion, in the beginning proves a bit difficult, insouciant and uncontrollable to Miss Carroll. Then as his rich uncle's secretary she takes him far away from his, playboy's merry-go-round. He becomes so gallant as to toss away a four million dollar inheritance which caused most of his and Miss Carroll's troubles and pleasure, since both have claim on it.

Mischa Auer, in the role of a much of-to-marry baron, accent, cane and top hat, presently in search of another American heiress, leaves the audiences in the aisle during each and every appearance. Undoubtedly the part was written expressly for him. In common with the baron, Grace Bradley, as the female menace of the piece, adds much to the cast.

Bank of Bay St. Louis, and was chairman of the board of directors, a distinction and honor that had worthily come to him, and that meant added prestige to local banking.

Some forty or fifty years ago Mr. Engman and his lamented wife, who preceded him to the grave two years ago, engaged in the mercantile business, their small store, acorn-like, growing to oak-like proportion was located on the beach, adjoining St. Joseph's Academy. The business prospered. Mrs. Engman, because her husband's time was fully engaged in other business pursuit, in time assumed active management of the store until it finally became well-nigh an institution of the city and was a credit largely in part to her business genius and all-time application. Today, to her memory the business is known as the "R. Engman Store," a business tribute paid her after her death by husband and four grown children.

Mr. Engman was not only engaged in business—that stamped him as a man of success and prominence in his community—that gave him a place of permanency in the heart and minds of all who knew him, and that has become part of local history,—but at various times held public position.

At one time he was a member of the City Council and his name will be found on the marble cornerstone of the City Hall building, for it was that administration of which he was an influential member that constructed the municipal executive offices.

Again, he served the city as treasurer and that with credit and marked fidelity. He was at one time a member of the Hancock County Board of Election Commissioners, appointed by the Governor; and served repeatedly as a member of the City Democratic Executive Committee. And from time to time held various positions of trust—serving for the good of the community, as a loyal citizen that he was, and not for pay.

Years ago he was a moving factor in an organization known as the Association of Commerce which contributed largely to local development.

More recently he became associated with the Gulf Coast Building & Loan Association, of which he was an organizer, and until its interests were recently disposed, was president. His activities with the Hancock County Bank are well known. He held several places of honor and trust with that organization and finally became chairman of the board.

His late wife was Miss Bertha Lissa, a woman of remarkable personality and who accomplished much for the community, always a friend and helper of others, particularly young people. Giving positions to many in her store and training them to become useful people of both self and community. A woman who inspired others by her own living example to greater achievement and accomplishment.

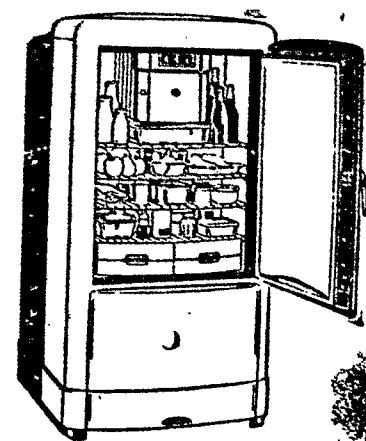

Surviving Mr. Engman is one sister, Mrs. E. E. Jordy, of New Orleans, but of recent years a resident of Long Beach, Miss. Two sons, Simon Lissa and Edwin Joseph, the first an executive of the Hancock County Bank and the latter in charge of the men's department of the B. R. Engman Store; and Misses Levia E. and Miriam A., who at their mother's passing, actively took over the store business in this city.

Selling BETTER LIVING Cheaper

A brother residing in Indiana passed away only a few years ago.

Funeral ceremony was held from the late residence Saturday afternoon, members of Bay St. Louis Masonic Lodge, No. 429, officiating, after which the remains were taken to the L. & N. train of that afternoon, bound for New Orleans, from which city final funeral ceremony and interment took place from a funeral home in that city, with interment in Hebrew Rest, Sunday morning, besides the remains of the late beloved wife.

Religious ceremony at the funeral home was conducted by the eloquent Rabbi Feibleman, whose words were gems of thought and consoling depth. A wealth of flowers, from Bay St. Louis and the Gulf Coast, and augmented doubly from friends at New Orleans, characterized the funeral ceremony. The abundance could only have been exceeded by the exquisite beauty and fragrance of rare blossoms, all attestations of love and affection and tributes of respect to the memory of one who had lived a long and useful life; who had been an ideal husband and father.

The Engman family had always stood for many of the better things in life, but none of the sterling qualities stood out more prominently than the fact of its living exemplifications for parent and children ever united, the latter living to the tenant of the Fourth Commandment.

Mr. Engman, in addition to being a Mason was affiliated with a number of other organizations, notably, Order of Maccabees and Woodmen of the World, members of all bodies officially attending the last rites.

No movement for betterment of community was ever without his support. His charities were many, always concealed however, and a man of innate modesty his benefactions were always void of ostentation. He shunned publicity. Rather living in the satisfaction of having done his share toward his fellowmen and always abiding by the golden rule.

Living costs rise during quarter ended June 15 is put at 0.9 per cent by Miss Perkins.

They plan to leave here for home this week-end and will do so reluctantly so widely have they been entertained. They will leave with fond memories and local friends will look forward to their return.

MRS. AUGUST RAUXET AND DAUGHTER GIVE CHARMING PARTY.

A maternal social gesture of more than ordinary interest and enjoyment was the morning "coffee bridge" given Tuesday by Mrs. August Rauxet and her charming and highly accomplished young daughter, Miss Odille, the former assisted in receiving by Miss Mary Elba Marshall.

This beautiful affair was presented to a large number of guests in setting of natural charm and beauty—at the home of Mrs. Rauxet's relative, Mrs. J. Baldwin Allen, residing at the former J. W. Wisner South beach villa.

A breakfast menu was served and by noon it was realized that time, fleet-footed, had gone by only too quickly.

JOINT HOSTESSES ENTERTAIN MANY GUESTS CHARMINGLY.

Mrs. Theodore T. Robin of Waveland and Mrs. Ulysses Cuevas of Bay St. Louis charmingly combined in entertaining quite a number of their friends at bridge Wednesday morning at the spacious and inviting home of Mrs. Robin in moss-bowered Waveland Estates.

The affair of nine tables of players brought together friends in the highly competition contest of cards, adding zest to the atmosphere of Southern charm and hospitality. A delightful breakfast menu was served at 9 o'clock and additional refreshments served as the forenoon hours sped their way and only too early brought the affair to that time of parting.

The popular young matrons were assisted in receiving particularly by Mrs. Terry and Miss Singgreen, both of Waveland.

Guests included several out of town visitors and made for an assembly of quite a coterie of both the younger and older set.

Miss Marcelle Menou has dignity, poise and timeliness of manner and is well adapted for the role of chaperone.

Little Miss June Breath, dainty and interesting daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Breath, Jr., was the recipient of many attentions on the occasion of her second natal anniversary, Monday afternoon, August 16, when her parents entertained at a children's party. This was a beautiful affair and the many children attending enjoyed the afternoon in thorough fashion. June is granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. RED AND WHITE BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Numerously attended was the "red and white" birthday party for Martin Noto, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Noto, given at the family home and lawn in State street Friday, August 13, on the occasion of his fourth birthday.

Some forty-odd children enjoyed the delights as only a "kiddie birthday party" affords. A feature of the refreshment tables was one particularly large birthday cake, representing a merry-go-round, baked and skillfully fashioned by Mrs. Wallace Bon Temps. Peppermint striped candies of red and white supplied the reports and details of the get-up, original in creation and serving as a novelty not to be forgotten.

Mrs. Noto was assisted by a number of friends and nothing was left undone to give the children a good time in celebration of the happy occasion.
